1. Director's Message

Dr. Padma Rani

Director Manipal Institute of Communication

This Newsletter, which we reckon is a cherished pathway of keeping in touch with all those have been an integral part of our journey.

Manipal Institute of Communication strives to be the best media and communication institution globally, whereupon one may recall the words of A.P.J. Abdul Kalam, "Excellence is a continuous process and not an accident."

In order to keep our stakeholders informed of our activities, the newsletter is a small venture in that direction. We have covered the academic & non-academic activities of faculty, staff and students of Manipal Institute of Communication from January 2020 to May 2021. This time we have covered our three issues in one volume due to the disruptions caused by the pandemic. We hope you welcome this effort of ours.

From March 2020 the world is facing a pandemic. We have shifted to virtual mode of teaching and learning. Teaching in physical mode was suspended from 18 March, 2020 the students were able to return back to campus for a brief period from December 2020 to Mid-March 2021. The rise in cases due to the second wave classes had to be suspended physically.

I wish to thank my staff and students for quickly adapting to the on-line mode of teaching & Learning. Our students have undertaken the extra-circular activities on a virtual mode.

We have not met the students who joined us in the academic year 2020-21. The graduating batch of 2020 had a virtual convocation.

The graduating batch of 2021," Wishing good luck and a bright prosperous future".

It goes without saying that you are invited to convey your views regarding the newsletter:

MIC Events & Highlights

Cheer and excitement filled the air as Manipal Institute of Communication (MIC) held its annual three-day media event, Article-19 on the 20th, 21st and 22nd of February 2020. The year's line-up featured prominent speakers from various backgrounds such as Karthik Srinivasan, Disha Oberoi, Shweta Kothari, Harshveer Jain, Satyanshu Singh and Devanshu Kumar, from the fields of digital media, radio, journalism and film-making.

Insightful conversation and motivating talks presented by the speakers gave students a glimpse of the inner workings of the media industry while emphasizing on the general theme of introspection, retrospection and indulging in one's creativity. Shweta Kothari, managing director of The Logical Indian shed light on the course being taken by mainstream media and the contrast that settles when compared to alternate media. Disha Oberoi, radio jockey and an alumnus of MIC remembered her rollercoaster of a ride to finally being where she is while clearing up common misconceptions about the industry. Harshveer Jain aka @storysellercomics took the audience through his journey of self-acceptance, expression and using humour and satire when promoting free speech. MIC also witnessed participation from its sister colleges of MAHE and other institutes such as Mahatma Gandhi Memorial College (MGM) in a variety of cultural events i.e., Duet Duals, Dance, JAM, On-Air and so on with a final Mr and Miss Article 19 at its conclusion. Participants also had the pleasure of being judged by the guest speakers during these events and gained valuable feedback in return.

Article 19 gave its attendees an absolute visual treat on the final day with its private screening of 'Chintu ka Birthday' a comedy-drama film written and directed by guest speakers, Devanshu Kumar and Satyanshu Singh. This was later followed by a delightful Q & A that brought to light, the cinematic process and the journey it takes to produce a good film. A medley of illuminating talks, energizing events and the thrill of the roaring 20s made Article-19, 2020 a success amongst its attendees.

The UNESCO-led Global Alliance for Partnerships on Media and Information Literacy

Manipal Institute of Communication has. The UNESCO-led Global Alliance for Partnerships on Media and Information Literacy (GAPMIL) is a groundbreaking effort to promote international cooperation to ensure that all citizens have access to media and information competencies. Thus far, organizations and individuals from over a hundred countries have agreed to join forces and stand together for change. This pioneering initiative was launched during the Global Forum for Partnerships on Media and Information Literacy which took place from 26 to 28 June 2013, in Abuja, Nigeria, aiming at: articulating concrete partnerships to drive MIL development and impact globally; enabling the MIL community to speak as one voice on certain critical matters, particularly as it relates to policies; further deepening the strategy for MIL to be treated as a composite concept by providing a common platform for MIL related networks and associations globally.

Digital Namma Angadi 2021

Digital Namma Angadi 2021: For seventeen years, Namma Angadi has helped to bridge the gap between local coastal Karnataka crafts and customers from across the world. Each year, the students of MIC gear up to present a remarkable weekend fiesta attracting several global customers on campus. Keeping in mind the spirit of Namma Angadi and its importance as a community event, an offline Namma Angadi was initially planned. However, MIC, Namma Bhoomi, and Manipal did not foresee the sudden second wave of COVID-19 in Manipal. The originally planned, physical exhibition cum sale was canceled. Instead, the team after quick consultations with the Director and Namma Bhoomi authorities decided to move Namma Angadi 2021 online under the fruitful mentoring of the faculty co-ordinator Ms Sowparnika Pawan Kumar Attavar. In lieu MIC decided to use Instagram, Facebook, and WhatsApp as the platforms for selling Namma Angadi products. To achieve this, an easy-to-navigate digital product catalog was created which was shared with the customers and promoted on social media. In addition, the student team also created a real-time inventory management system to track the availability of stocks. The first-ever digital Namma Angadi collected a whopping Rs 4,48,000 over three days, despite limited products and digital novelty. It catered to more than 200 customers, making it a grand success. The event was not without its crises, but the teams worked hand-in-hand to pull the event out of all issues.

Customer feedback:

"This online thing is a great help! Have been in Manipal for 8 years. Now in Rajasthan so was thinking that I'll miss it..but thanks to you guys!" - Dr Vandana (physician)

"Congratulations to the entire team Namma Angadi for this wonderful initiative promoting and providing a platform for Desi fabric...you people deserve a big applause." - Maresh (journalist)

AM Plus the enterprising college magazine of Manipal Institute of Communication took to a new avatar during the covid lockdown period and transcended its weekly print status; this time newly operated published as well as upgraded in the online mode. In the process students started working on their articles in the vicinity of their homes, cutting across cities spread over India and abroad, gathering information from telephone interviews and by networking on platforms such as Whatsapp and MS Teams. Finally, they put up their collaborative output by creating a virtual site of their own which catered to a wider audience. So much for a brave new world of information dissemination.

3. Faculty & Staff Updates

MIC welcomed two new faculty members into its club in year 2020:

Prof B P Sanjay, & Dr Chandana Kumar Vemana.

Dr B P Sanjay had his academic training in communication and journalism in Bangalore and obtained a PhD from Simon Fraser University, Canada. He taught at Madras University and MS University, Tirunelveli before he moved to University of Hyderabad as a Professor in 1995. He was involved in studying the historic SITE experiment and his professional expertise and interests are in the areas of political economy of information and communication technologies, development communication, and international communication. Ever since, he has been associated with various national and international bodies that chalk out policies on media education and research. Notably, on the administrative front, he was the Director of the Indian Institute of Mass Communication (IIMC), Delhi, and the Pro Vice-chancellor of the university. He also served as the first Vice-Chancellor of Central University of Tamil Nadu, Thiruvavur, between 2009 and 2014. Meanwhile, he was the Director of the College of Integrated Studies at the university, and served as the Pro Vice-Chancellor of the university between June 2016-July 2018.

Most prominently, Dr Sanjay is part of the Editorial Advisory Board of Journalism and is a Mass Communication Educator.

Recently, Professor B P Sanjay presented his quintessential views on the topics “Time Management for a Teacher” and “Issues in the competitive world for Teachers” in an Induction Training Program for faculty members of HEIs conducted by the Central University of Rajasthan, on 24th and 25th January 2021.

Dr Sanjay was also invited as the chairperson for ‘plenary session 3’ in the 4th National Media Conclave – 2020 which presented the broad theme of “Communication for Social Change” - 21 and 22 Nov 2020, Odisha, India.

Dr Chandana Kumar Vemana had completed a doctoral study at Pondicherry Central University as a UGC Senior Research Fellow awardee in Performing Arts. The creative amalgamation of Art and Media technology was focused intensively in the area of ‘Media Projection design for Multimedia Art’. He has a Master’s degree in Performing Arts with the specialization in Theatre Arts with UGC NET (Performing Arts), a Master’s degree in Visual Communication with UGC NET (Visual Arts), and a Master’s degree in Journalism and Mass Communication with UGC NET (Journalism and Mass Communication). Dr Chandana has worked in various administrative and teaching positions at esteemed institutions like Manipal University Jaipur, and K L University, Andhra Pradesh. His current area of teaching and research interest is Television Production, Visual Semiotics, Production Design, and Acting for Media.

Director Duo

Ranadeep Bhattacharyya & Judhajit Bagchi

Director Duo Ranadeep Bhattacharyya and Judhajit Bagchi are National Award and Cannes winning Indian filmmakers based in Mumbai and have been working together under their production house Yaanus Films. Together they have more than 15 years’ experience in the filmmaking industry in various capacities: as Conceptualizer, Writer, Director, Cinematographer, Editor, Producer and Photographer, and have worked in over 500 odd ad-brand and corporate films. Interestingly, they are the first and only Indian filmmakers to win the prestigious Cannes Dolphin Award, twice in a row at the Cannes Corporate Media & TV Awards 2015 & 2016 for their ad films along with several other international awards. Their fashion films have been showcased at top International Fashion Film Festivals. They have written, produced and directed the award-winning short film ‘Amen’ on the issue of child sex abuse and gender identity. This was included on the list of top 30 LGBT Films from across the world at Iris Prize Festival, LGBT Oscars in 2011 along with being awarded the Best Narrative Short at Kashish Mumbai International Queer Film Festival and the Best Short and Scriptwriting Award at IDPA Awards 2011. Amen is the only Indian Short Film to be integrated into the syllabus of Gender and Sexuality Studies at the Kinsey Institute, Indiana University & The Department of Women’s Gender & Sexuality Studies, The Ohio State University. In 2020, their short film ‘Children of the Soil’ on the issue of farmer suicide was awarded the National Award by Govt of India along with Best Experimental Film Award at major international film festivals like Oregon Independent Film Festival, Academy Qualifying Interfilm Festival Berlin, Indian Film Festival Stuttgart and AM Docs, to name a few. Ranadeep is a bibliophile, published writer, digital artist with book illustrations and is associated with the spiritual circle ‘Zanaan’ as the Art Director. Meanwhile, Judhajit is an acclaimed photographer with his work featured on Rolling Stone India Cover, Erotico Magazine, while he has won renown at the Paris Photo Prize & other International Photography Awards. micmanipal #MICfeatures congratulates Sanath Balkur for the immense success of the documentary called "dhivarah: a way of life" which has been selected for the American Pavilion Emerging Filmmaker Showcase at the @festivaldecannes in France. The film reflects on the hardships faced by the coastal fishing community due to climate change, and industrial fishing. Sanath is credited as the "Production Co-ordinator" and also played the role of a principal researcher, interviewer, and sync sound recording engineer. The film has also received the first time filmmaker award at @intloceanfilmfest and was also the finalist for the Orion film festival in New York.

Talking about his time at MIC, the 2020 graduate mentions that the kind of friendly learning environment he encountered here was one that helped him build up the confidence to take on such a responsibility. "It nourishes a student's sense of community responsibility and equips one with necessary technical and social communication skills", he adds.

We congratulate Sananth for this extraordinary achievement and wish him the best for all his endeavours ahead.

micmanipal We would like to congratulate Rumi Ambastha (@chasing.komorebi), an alumni of MIC (BAJC 2008), and director of brand marketing at The Man Company and the team of 'Gentleman kisse kehete hai' on receiving the prestigious Blue Elephant in writing for films at the Kyooris Awards.

'Gentleman kisse kehete hai' was conceptualized in house by Rumi and her team under the guidance of Mr. Hitesh Dhingra, Founder of The Man Company. The idea was powerfully translated into words by writer Gaurav Solanki and narrator Ayushman Khurrana. According to Rumi, her love for advertising started within the walls of Maniplal Institute of Communication.

We here at MIC are very proud of her and looking forward to whatever comes next from her imagination to our screens.

micmanipal In these tough times of the Coronavirus pandemic, it is heart-warming to watch Safah Sait (@safah_sait), an alumna of Manipal Institute of Communication – BAMC 2018 Batch, start the agency 'Brand Therapy' (@thisisbrandtherapy), centered on the idea of helping small-scale businesses rebuild their image, after being badly struck by the havoc, that the pandemic has wreaked. Brand Therapy, an idea that went public on June 24, 2020, is an aim to help small brands carry their business to the digital platform, mainly through social-media marketing.

Brand Therapy is constituted of friends and colleagues, who have come together for this initiative, and they all work remotely from different cities of India. Right now, they are offering digital marketing and branding services, to any small business that reaches out to them. They have had over 30 queries of small brands reaching out to them for help, within the short-span of just two weeks, and they offer agency level work, at a 'Pay-What-You-Want' model.

We, at Manipal Institute of Communication are extremely proud of Safah's initiative, and we wish her success in all her endeavours.

In the current scenario, the Media and Entertainment industry in India is worth over 2000 billion rupees. While traditional media, new media, digital and non-digital media have established their strong hold, the Indian audience is shown to love newspapers as much as daily shows on online streaming services. In this regard, abundant opportunities wait to be explored in specialized areas of interpersonal and business communications, video and audio content production, branding and advertising, product and graphic designing, Animation, VFX, film making, photography, blogging, digital marketing, news reporting, script writing, editing, development communications, investigative and data journalism, social communications among other journalism, media, and communications fields. For anyone thinking of a career in media, this is truly the best time to be part of the media industry.
